Jury trials due soon in Glades

When the state legislature adjourned last Friday, two major changes were made possible for the system of justice in the Glades, one by an action taken by the legislature's last day and another by a bill the legislature didn't act on.

The legislature passed an act which will allow jury trials to be held in western Palm Beach County, with all the jurors chosen from this area.

On the other hand the legislature insured by taking no action that cases now being tried in municipal courts in Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee will also be tried in the court presided over by Palm Beach County Circuit Judge Don Adams.

The bill sponsored by William A. Freeman of Key West will allow more than one pool of jurors to be made up in the county according to a spokesman from Representative Tom Lewis' office, but it has two basic differences from the bill introduced by Lewis to accomplish the same purpose.

The first difference is that the bill which was passed in the waning hours of the 1975 legislature only allows counties with a population of more than 50,000 set up two or more pools of jurors and wouldn't affect Palm Beach County.

The second difference, which would affect the county, is that Freeman's bill instead of empowering the equity commission to make the change on its own, allows the commission the request of a majority of the county circuit judges.

Jury trials is one of a number of changes Judge Adams has sought to incorporate into his court since being appointed by Gov. Reubin Askew, but it has been one of the hardest to make because state law only allowed a single pool of jurors to be formed in each county.

Judge Thomas Schultz, chief of the 15th Judicial Circuit, which makes up Palm Beach County, agreed last November to allow Adams to try non-jury felony cases but has held off on jury trials.

If seven of the 12 judges in the circuit, however, ask the Palm Beach County Commission, another jury district could be set up for the people who live in the western part of the county.

There is a possibility other jury districts could also be set up in the south and north parts of the county.

Adams said Tuesday he wasn't aware at that time the legislature had passed the bill but thought it was "very good news" which could lead to total court service in the Glades.

Adams also expressed cautious optimism over the idea of taking over the case load from Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee city courts on Jan. 1, 1977 saying he didn't believe they would amount to much more than one "judge-day" per week.

He said there would, of course, be problems in making the transition, just as there were problems throughout the state in forming the two-tier judicial system, a move which was also required by the amended State Constitution's Article V.

"I'm glad we didn't make the move until now," he said, "but we can do it. Florida led the nation in this move (forming the two-tier system) and we were able to pick it up and go with it."

"For me, personally," he said, "I don't believe taking over the municipal court case load will be as big a problem as the other transitional changes."

He said he feels there will be some improvement in the efficiency of the court system and added he feels the cities should be getting about as much money in fines as under the present system.

He said one area which could be a problem, however, was the close touch the municipal courts can keep on the local community.

"I would like the Belle Glade city court as doing a fantastic job," he said. "As an outsider, that court is a perfect example of a very well run system. Not only do they have an experienced jurist (as judge) but the real key to their success was that the court system and the law enforcement people combined had a finger on the pulse of the community."

"They have a good reaction time to judicial problems," he said. "I'm concerned that a circuit court could lose some of that control of the streets. I don't know it could happen but I am concerned."

He said there may be some good and some bad to come out of the shift of court cases out of the cities but said he believes it will be good in the long run.

"It's really hard to improve a system without trying changes," Adams said. "If we don't try it, we'll never know if it will be an improvement. If it doesn't work, I'll be the first to go back to the legislature and ask to go back to municipal courts."

School to begin

Summer school in the Glades will be held at Pahokee High this summer with registration from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. next Thursday in the Pahokee High guidance office.

Summer school classes will begin June 18 and will run from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. each day Monday through Friday.

Courses which will be offered will include music, science, math, English, social studies, driver education and band.

Drug column starts today

The Belle Glade Herald is introducing a new column on the Opinion Page today, dealing with drugs and drug usage.

The column, To Drug or Not To Drug, What is Your Question?, is being written by newcomer to Belle Glade, the Rev. J.P. Feld, minister of the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ at 131 W. Canal St.

Feld said he has personal experience in the worlds of using and selling drugs and this "street knowledge" will be one of his sources in discussing drugs in his column.

It was at his next job, as an apprentice carpenter, that Feld said he became involved in religious work and kicked the habit, going on to become a minister in his church.

He said he became part of a group, sponsored by the church, who traveled about the country speaking to a number of various types of groups and people, offering their alternative to drugs, drinking and gambling.

"We weren't so much talking against drugs or alcohol," he said, "as offering them something more desirable."

Feld said he has already published one column for the "Drug Column."

[Editorial on Page 4]

Involvement of city commissioners was cited as the reason behind the resignation of Belle Glade City Manager George Knoblock last week.

Knoblock, who was hired by the commission eight months ago to replace former City Manager William Mallory, whose resignation the commission requested 14 months ago, said the involvement was one of two reasons he was resigning his position.

"I've been here eight months," Knoblock said in an initial statement, "and I've analyzed the circumstances within the city. In view of my analysis, I feel it is appropriate for me to submit my resignation."

He said there had been no confrontation with the commission and the resignation was entirely his decision, that none of the commissioners had asked for it.

Knoblock also said housing had been a problem for him, that he had lived in five places during his eight months tenure with the city government and still hadn't found a suitable location.

It would be helpful if the city could resolve that problem," he said, suggesting one possibility might be for the city to purchase a house to rent to incoming city employees until they could find permanent housing.

He pointed out that Belle Glade Fire Chief Pete Webb had been employed in February and still hasn't found permanent housing. He said Webb is now living in camping facilities at the City Marina.

When pressed, Knoblock said that "analysis of the circumstances" which led to his resignation was based on the fact that when he was interviewed for his job with the city, he was told the city had a number of serious problems and the commissioners were looking for a strong city manager.

"Section 5-11 of the Belle Glade City Charter specifically forbids city commissioners' involvement in city employees directly and that except in cases of inquiry, they aren't to influence the city manager in personal matters."

"They said it was their intention to turn the administration over to the city manager and they would perform the function of commissioners in the sense of being a policy making body.

"In some cases," he said, "I found that involvement of some of the commissioners was beyond the degree I thought proper in light of my training."

Knoblock was quick to point out that he wasn't criticizing the commissioners for their involvement.

"I've lived in Florida for 30 years," Knoblock said, "but I'm a relative outsider here. I can't come into Belle Glade and criticize the way things are done."

"It's up to me to analyze my goals and if they appear different than what is here, it's up to me to go somewhere else," he said.

Great at that time blasted Knoblock said he had been unable to find city employees on an emergency basis the preceding weekend and demanded that Knoblock remain in the city during weekends.

Great said he felt he was doing someone else's work and he was "getting tired or it. I think the city manager should stay in town once in a while."

Knoblock responded that he felt it was inappropriate for the commission to require a city manager to stay in town all the time except for one or two days a month.

Knoblock said last week, however, that he didn't consider that to be a confrontation and it wasn't the major reason he was leaving the city.

The city manager went on to say he felt a lot had been accomplished during his tenure in Belle Glade, pointing out a number of projects which included the ongoing replacement of utility lines along SR80, the improved performance of the city's sewage treatment plant, an improved civil service system and several construction projects.

He pointed out that he had more than earned his salary in the increased efficiency of the operation of the Belle Glade Country Club, bringing it out of more than $34,000 deficit last year into the black this year.

He believed a city manager should more than pay his own salary by savings he brings the city," Knoblock said, "and I feel I've already done that."

Mayor Grear was unavailable for comment on Knoblock's resignation, which won't be officially acted upon until the commission meets Monday night.

Commissioner Tom Altman said he was concerned over the administrator's resignation.

"There is a great demand these days for government to be more business-like," Altman said, "and the best vehicle to accomplish that on a municipal level is the city manager form of government."

"The City of Belle Glade," he went on, "has had two very capable and very professional managers resign within the last year. If the political environment is not conducive to this form of city government, I believe we politicians must apply some introspection and determine what the problem is."

July 2. He did say, however, that some friends in Pasco County were talking to him about the possibility of his running for the position of state representative from that area.

Knoblock was hired Sept. 24, 1975. He had been the county administrator of Pasco County. Before that he had been the city manager in New Port Richey and at one time was the mayor of Dania.

There had been some indication of friction between the city manager and Mayor William Grear for several weeks but that friction came into the open during the May 10 City Commission meeting.

Chamber mulls banquet plans

The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce board of directors will be running a check this week with the membership to determine whether the Chamber's annual awards banquet should be changed this year.

Most of the members said they would be in favor of having a more informal type of banquet this fall, possibly a barbecue at the city marina, rather than the traditional formal banquet.

Several board members said they would help telephone members to find out whether they would rather hold an informal dinner than formal and whether they would rather have it inside or outside.

The reason the discussion came up was the small crowd who responded to last year's banquet, which drew only 130 people to the $25 per couple affair held at the Belle Glade Elks Lodge.

"We discussed this last year," Director Earl Meredith said, pointing out that "when you have 250 members and 140 show up, that's real poor."

Director Wayne Mikell noted that of the 140 people who appeared at the last banquet, there were probab-

Awards given

They have collected food and clothing for earthquake victims. They went caroling at Christmas and had a party. They have been on two camping trips, where they put up tents, cooked, cleaned, hiked and enjoyed campfires. They took skating lessons. Cleveland every Saturday had a party when completed. They have visited the public library. They took part in the Girl Scout Program at Glades Central during Girl Scout Week. On Girl Scout Sunday, they attended church together.

Class of '46 meets

The pool-side patio area of the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wedgeworth was the scene of the 1946 class reunion of Belle Glade High School Saturday. The hosts were both members of the class.

Frank Hobson, principal of Belle Glade High when the class graduated, and Mrs. Hobson of West Palm Beach, were special guests along with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lane of Belle Glade. Mrs. Lane, (Alice Cherry) was room mother and chaperone on the many trips the class enjoyed during their school years. Orchid corsages were presented to Mrs. Hobson and Mrs. Lane.

Barnes Smith was the master of ceremonies during a program which followed a steak dinner. The roll was called by Charlotte Enlon McClatchey, class secretary. There were 49 class members and guests present.

Each classmate responded with a brief resume of the past 30 years. Those not attending were answered for by Claudine Warren, class president, with information from questionnaires sent to each classmate.

The class of 39 graduates has had one classmate, Shirley Cherry Comerford passed away in 1951, leaving 20 small sons. Her mother, Mrs. Lane, told the group that the oldest boy is married with two children and the youngest is serving in the U.S. Navy.

Of the remaining 38, all have married, with 107 children and 32 grandchildren. Two sets of twins have been born, one to Jack Hughes Chumney. Thirty-four of the classmates live in Florida, with 11 in the Belle Glade area.

Prizes were awarded to class-mates winning in the following categories: married longest, Helores Frier Boone (June 9, 1946); married shortest time, Mary K. Barwick Springer (seven years); youngest child, Philip Clayton (three years old); longest married, Herbert Priest (six); most grandchildren, Philip Clayton (Columbus, Md.).

One of the activities he said will be available is a basic art lesson to be offered by Belle Glade artist Ann Tyler.

All the activities are free and the only thing paid for is the bus. He is asking that parents send a bagged lunch, with their children. The activities will take place Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday each week from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The public is welcome.

A popular spot was the bulletin board, filled with snapshots, photo programs, award letters and various clippings of the senior year activities.

Al Mockel, husband of classmate Audrey Best Mockel, entertained the crowd with tunes of the forties on his accordion following the dinner.

The Bicentennial theme was emphasized with a six-foot centerpiece on the serving table along with miniature flags in the mint cups at each place setting. Candles and floral arrangements were placed on the dining tables.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Boardley (Norma J. Armstrong), Mr. D. C. Arnette, Mrs. Dorothea Teichert, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Springer (Mary K. ## Getting smaller to handle more.....

While most businesses experiencing growing pains looking for relief think in terms of expanding their building or moving into a larger one, at least one Belle Glade firm is going to shrink their equipment to handle more customers. The Belle Glade Telephone Answering Service started out in 1969 with a board of telephone sets which were extension lines from their customers' telephones but that board has now been expanded to the point another five sets will be all the company can handle.

So Wayne and Betty Bair say they're going another way. Instead of the large board of sets, they're going to install a switchboard made to use as an answering service.

Mrs. Bair said she and her husband bought out the service in 1973 and doubled in the volume of their business last year alone. "We're getting more and more inquiries every day," she said on a recent Monday.

Mrs. Bair said the company isn't having the new equipment installed simply for the efficiency, although it will be more efficient, or to save the customer money, although it will do that too.

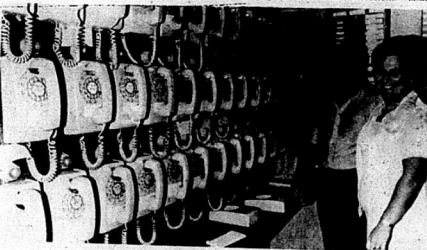

Up until now, Mrs. Bair said the company hasn't solicited business and has done no advertising, relying, instead, on word-of-mouth.

advertising. She said the company is now providing the only such service in Belle Glade and is contemplating an expansion into Pahokee after the new equipment is installed.

Mrs. Bair said the service the company provides is essentially a 24-hour a day telephone secretarial service and is only one of several such services offered by Bair Communications, a business started by her husband and his father several years ago.

"We can do anything in the communications field," she said, saying the company's slogan is the same as the Associated Telephone Answering Exchanges, Inc. of which they are a member.

"People Answering People," she said, reflects the philosophy of the live answering services around the country, which maintains that a business' client associates and friends deserve an unanswerable telephone, and "least of all they should not have to dictate their message into an automatic machine."

HOW TO MAKE A "PERFECT" CUP OF COFFEE

The art of making good coffee often seems to be the best of gourmet cooks and nothing tops off a perfect meal like a perfect cup of coffee.

General Electric Company, one of the world's leading coffeemaker manufacturers, offers the following tips to help achieve a perfect cup of coffee:

- After using your coffeemaker each time, wash basket and spreader, pump lid and inside of coffeemaker in hot sudsy water. Rinse and dry thoroughly. Coffee-oils and residue left on the inside will turn bitter and rancid, causing poor flavor in your next pot of coffee. Most GE coffeemakers are fully immovable so thorough cleaning is easy.

- Carefully measure the amount of fresh, cold water needed.
- Rinse coffee basket with cold water. Use cup markings inside the basket (2 level tablespoons per cup) to measure the correct amount of regular or percolator grind coffee. Be sure none gets down into the stem. Then put into the coffeemaker, twisting the top of the pump slightly to be sure it's firmly in place. This also helps spread coffee evenly in the basket. Replace lid on coffeemaker.

- Set brew control for desired strength. You may have to experiment once or twice to find the strength you like best.

- Plug in the coffeemaker and when the perking stops, the coffee is ready to enjoy. Many coffeemakers have a special keeps warm heater which keeps the coffee at just the right serving temperature so you can enjoy the pot at leisure.

That's the law!

"The trouble with George Knoblock is that he's too professional."

That was the analysis of the situation by one city official when he learned of Knoblock's resignation last week and while it may be impossible for a professional to be too professional, Knoblock comes close.

And that's an indictment of the way things are run in Belle Glade. Knoblock wouldn't put it that way. The second city manager to resign his post in 14 months said he didn't believe he should criticize city commissioners for interfering in the city's administration.

All he would say was that he was hired with the understanding the commissioners wanted a strong administrator who would allow them to stick to their job of setting policy and that, "In some cases, I found that involvement of some commissioners was beyond the degree I thought proper in light of my training."

But Knoblock wouldn't criticize. He said he felt he was still too much of an outsider to do that, and that's not mentioning the fact he was the employee.

But if the city manager won't or can't criticize, the city charter can. The charter uses crystal-clear language to absolutely prohibit the involvement of any commissioner with any city employee except the city manager.

Anyone with an ear attuned to the city's operation knows that charter provision has been violated on a wholesale basis and at least one commissioner has openly stated in more than one public meeting that he intends to continue violating it.

That's like the President of the United States, or a U.S. Senator, or a U.S. Congressman or a U.S. Supreme Court Justice going on record that they have violated the U.S. Constitution they have sworn to uphold and that they have every intention of continuing to violate it.

Some of the five commissioners now setting policy for the City of Belle Glade have broken the law and at least one has openly indicated he will continue to break that same law. If the resigning city manager doesn't feel he is in a position to criticize them, we can and do.

The commission will soon be looking for a replacement for George Knoblock and we fear that if the applicants find out why the city has lost two capable administrators in the past 14 months, this city won't be able to hire anything but a yes-man.

If we do that, we might as well revert to a city council form of government because that is what we will have.

But that choice belongs to the people, not the people's representatives. If those representatives make the decision, it would be nothing short of an unlawful seizure of power.

That's the law.

Good news!

The adjournment of the state legislature last week left the Glades judicial system some good news and what let's hope isn't too bad news.

The passage of a jury districting bill gives real hope that in the near future anyone having to serve jury duty will serve it with out having to travel to the coast. . . and they'll be the peers on the juries of the Glades people being tried.

Setting up another pool of jurors made up of residents of the western part of Palm Beach County is one of those great ideas you wonder why no one ever thought of them before.

It makes sense in every way and we congratulate Circuit Judge Don Adams in his efforts, along with Representatives Tom Lewis and Bill James. Lewis and James introduced legislation which would have allowed the creation of the separate district and although it was another bill that was passed, their backing probably had something to do with it.

The municipal courts, however, are a dead issue. The city courts of Belle Glade, South Bay, and Pahokee will be dismantled by Jan. 1 of next year, a move a lot of people have been fighting.

One of the arguments used by those who wanted to delay (permanently if possible) the death of the municipal courts has been that maybe a lot of the voters didn't know what they were doing when they voted in Article V of the State Constitution.

The trouble with that argument is that if you can second-guess the voters on one issue, why not second-guess them on every election that rolls around.

Besides, while there will probably be problems, they probably won't be quite as bad as many people anticipate.

Let's hear it for Mike

When athletes, athletic councilmen and coaches gathered at Glades Central last week to recognize the outstanding sportsmen at the school for spring sports, Michael Pringle could have gotten a most unathletic hernia carting off the prizes he won.

Mike had earlier won the Most Valuable Player Award for Raider footballers and Thursday night, he was presented the Most Valuable Player Award in basketball, Athlete of the Year Award and the brand new Charles M. McCurdy Memorial Award. And while the other trophies measured Mike's prowess on the football field and the basketball court, it took more than being a good jock to win the McCurdy Memorial award.

As Athletic Director Johnny Davis explained, this one was set up to recognize the other contributions an athlete had made as an all-around student, including his academic records and civic contributions.

When all too many adults seem to be looking for the things wrong with the kids of this country, it's particularly pleasant to be able to point out one who embodies the "better" characteristics, measured by anybody's standards.

Congratulations, Mike, and one of these days, we're going to get a picture of you smiling.

To Drug or Not to Drug

What is Your Question?

by j.p. feld

(Q.) What is the "Marijuana Illusion?" Mrs. G. L.

[A] The "Marijuana Illusion" is a term applied to the misleading and deceiving effects that pot (grass) and hashish have on the user. . . .

...those who smoke pot/hashish insist that they are more "creative, aware, and able to think clearer" because grass enlightens them. A recent informative article on this subject may be found in the December issue of Reader's Digest.

(Q.) Dear Rev. Feld: In your opinion is marijuana harmful? Why? or Why not? Miss D. W.

[A] In my opinion which is based firstly on "street experience" marijuana is more harmful than the user and society realize. Why? The reason behind my statement comes from first hand experience with the drug, finding it to be "psychologically [mentally] addicting" to the user, which in my opinion is far more dangerous than a drug which is primarily physiologically [physically] addicting.

CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Memo to the Boss:

It's only fair. I got it straight from Tom Forbes' mouth and that's what he said.

"If the bosses get a sayso in what we are to do for them, then we get a sayso in what they have to do for us."

What do you mean. "Who's Tom Forbes?" Tom Forbes is the president of the UTPB and that, dear Boss, is the United Teachers of Palm Beach.

The way brother Tom (that's what we call each other in union circles) put it, teachers ought to be allowed to be part of the team that negotiates the principal's contract.

So what's good for the goose is good for the gander. If Tom can kick his car into what Ebbie Grear gets paid, or what her authority is, I oughta have the right to do the same for you.

Like, for instance, if you can hire me, I can hire you and on the other hand, if you can fire me, I should be able to fire you.

It don't matter that you saved enough pennies and dollars here and there to buy a piece of the action while I sat in some tavern and frittered away my hard-earned silver on some comely wench swilling suds.

And if you decide what I'm gonna get paid, why shouldn't I be able to say how much your gonna get recompensed for some such double-jointed word for your labors.

I figger this job oughta be a democracy and any decision we make should be voted on. And since you're a minority, we employees should have the final sayso on what goes on here at the office.

Now the first thing I had in mind was a nice, modest 250 per cent raise for everybody across the board. Then we should vote on whether to go to a two day work week and a four hour day with two hours off for lunch.

And let's not forget about working conditions, whatever they are.

I guess that would include the construction of a tennis court, swimming pool, driving range, gymnasium and sauna for the use of the employees, all to be constructed at company expense, of course.

So far as fringe benefits go, I think I might be able to lobby the other employees to going along with a month's paid vacation after the first year's employment, with another two weeks added on for every year after that and a two-year sabbatical for every ten years worked.

That should cover the vacation time well enough and for insurance, that's easy, just make it a $500,000 life insurance policy paid up by the company along with complete accident and major medical.

Overtime should begin at, say, 12 hours and should be quadruple time and a half...except for Sundays and holidays when it would go to 14 times the base wage.

Those personnel actions should do for a starter and we'll see where we go from there.

(signed) Cracker Crumbs

Memo to CC

All that sounds good. And remind me that since we're sharing in "everything," I'm sure the employees would also like a share in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Collection time

"Mow, mow, mow your lawn, using taxpayers' funds" has been Belle Glade's nursery-book song for all too long now but the first shaky step was taken last week to put a stop to that, finally.

If the city commission does decide, as we hope they do, to charge a fee for mowing private property, which the owners refuse to maintain, that will mean a bare minimum of $17,000 a year which can be used elsewhere.

Recognizing reality, the city may never be able to collect those fees from the people who prove stubborn but at least it's a step towards a desired goal.

We've said it before in the past and we'd like to believe this will be the last time it's even mentioned, but it probably won't: The city has no business mowing private property but if that's what it takes to get it mowed, the owner ought to be charged for it.

So far, it's all been a one-way street, with us taxpayers footing without even asking anything in return.

HI... DO YOU KNOW ME?... WELL, FOR THE LAST YEAR I'VE BEEN RUNNING FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES... BUT STILL I HAVE TROUBLE BEING RECOGNIZED. SO THAT'S WHY I USE MY AMERICAN EXPRESS CARD FOR IDENTIFICATION....

WHO?

IT'S ME, MO DALL, MOM....

DATLINE HISTORY

by Jerome Turk & Wm. D. Ellis
PHILADELPHIA, June 5, 1776—We have learned that Richard Henry Lee, chairman of the illustrious Virginia delegation, will within two days offer a resolution in this Congress "that these United Colonies are of right ought to be free and independent states." Lee will further propose that a plan of confederation should be submitted promptly to the 13 colonies.

All leaders here know Lee's proposal is coming. They are up late nights considering their vote or trying to get definite instruction from their respective colonies because this is the awesome step—if they take it. None of these proceedings is legal in George III's realm. But Richard Henry Lee will now ask men to vote for a treasonous resolution. It may result in the hanging of those who may favor it.

Who is this Lee that he should be the instrument to bring these leaders to this terrible choice?

Richard Henry Lee is mature, wealthy & very Virginian. In fact he is the third Richard Henry Lee in his line. Of all the powerful Virginians in the Congress today, this lanky stern-profiled orator is perhaps the boldest in defiance of the king.

In the early struggle with England, it was Lee who first publicly denounced the Stamp Act — boldly authored the written protest to the king. It was Lee's Westmoreland County Association which fought to boycott British goods. It was Lee who, with Thomas Jefferson & Patrick Henry, founded the Virginia Committee of Correspondence to over-watch the Parliament & warn Americans of its tyrannies.

Lee is closer to the radical Adamsses of Massachusetts than most other Virginia leaders. He is especially a friend of John Adams, with whom he works closely in the Congress.

Richard Henry Lee is of course a marked man. It was Lee who headed the association to resist the Stamp Act & personally marched to the house of the English officials in charge, forcing him to surrender the official stamp papers, destroy his commission & swear he would not execute the Stamp Act orders.

It was Lee, as a member of the first continental Congress, who urged non-importation of English trade goods. The action led to formation of the Continental Association—the first small step toward union of the colonies.

This, then, is the man Virginia has instructed to bring to Congress a resolution asking it to vote a declaration of independence from the crown.

He is a shrewd choice, for we may be sure that as he states the resolution he will look each delegate severely in the eye at least once, seeking commitment. And he will note who finches.

It is believed that seven colonies are prepared to vote "aye." But New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware & South Carolina are uncertain. Some delegates who personally favor the resolution are not empowered to go against instruction from their colony legislatures. Some are trying to get new instruction from their colonies.

Today, delegates struggle with their consciences, their minds & their colleagues. Two stand—will they must say for the record where they stand—with the king, or against.

Lutherans to hold historic meeting

Unique in the history of Lutheranism in the states of Florida and Georgia is the forthcoming Simultaneous Convention to be held at the Hyatt House in Orlando, June 11-13.

This is the first time that the three major Lutheran Church bodies will be meeting at the same place on the same weekend.

Clergy and laypersons representing the congregations of the Florida-Georgia District of The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, the Florida Synod of The Lutheran Church in America, and the Florida-Bahama Conference of The Eastern District of the American Lutheran Church will be in attendance.

The Rev. Norman R. Springer and Mr. Richard Hanas will be attending the convention as delegates from St. Peter's Lutheran Church and School of Belle Glade.

Also attending the convention will be St. Peter's Lutheran School faculty members Mr. Roy Wenzel, Mrs. Susan Hanas, Miss Rhonda Schultz, and Mrs. Barbara Wenzel.

Celebrating the Bicentennial Year, this Convention will center around the theme "Our Eyes Have Seen the Glory."

A highlight of the convention will be the joint Bible Study led by Dr. George Anderson of Southern Theological Seminary. Pastor Springer will be one of the leaders of the small discussion groups that will meet to study the Bible study that is being presented by Dr. George Anderson.

It is estimated that over 1,500 people made up of pastors, teachers, laity and guests are expected to attend the three-day convention.

Memorial day tributes and festivities were spiced with a Bicentennial flavor this year in Belle Glade.

An estimated gathering of over 5,000 residents, visitors and dignitaries paid tribute to veterans of our armed forces, who risked their lives defending our personal freedom and democratic way of life.

There was the parade through downtown featuring various high school and masonic marching bands, mounted units and floats of every description featuring for the most part Red, White and Blue colors of America.

A museum dedication and tribute to the "Glades Cracker Historian" Lawrence Lee. Will along with the unveiling of a statue paying honor to all survivors of the 1928 hurricane which the reason many attended the city wide celebration.

However, I feel the highlight of the day was the combined cooperation, fellowship and general good will of each participant. The Chamber of Commerce headed by Roy Burch was instrumental as liaison to the Bicentennial Committee and other civic minded organizations.

News media coverage was abundant as the colorful event was a field day for photographers and broadcast.

WSWN Radio provided a live remote broadcast offering full coverage of the entire parade and dedication ceremonies. Telephone calls were received from the Palm Beaches to Miami, Ft. Pierce to Ft. Myers. Many of the callers were ex Glades residents currently living elsewhere in South Florida.

The planning for Belle Glade's official Bicentennial celebration took over a year but, the extra effort paid off as the entire program proceeded as a reality as scheduled. Even the rainmaker understood the special undertaking holding special for our nation until midnight instead of the usual mid afternoon thunderstorm.

It was my pleasure to emcee the evening entertainment at the Marina under the beautiful Aubrey Farmer Pavilion. Two bands offered a varied mixture of music from 5:30-10:30 p.m.

The "ESCALATORS" of G.C.I. performed a combination of rock and soul tunes featuring close harmony and often boogie melodies. Nashville recording artist Don Jarrells and "SUN COUNTRY" offered a great mixture of country music including several of his own releases such as "Everybody Loves a Good Dancer," "Don't Be Shy," "She's Every-thing I Need," "Cold Grey Light of Dawn." Don is a smooth, seasoned performer with nearly twenty years experience. His "Sun Country" band features Larry Smith, lead; Jim Hartley, drums; Kenny Hughes, bass; Jenny Lee is the featured female vocalist who plays tamborine and adds beautiful harmony. Bassman Kenny Hughes was unable to perform due to personal business in Cleveland. Marc Hazebrook of the "Southern Express" donated his time and talent so the Memorial Day celebration could continue. Don Jarrells said, "It is difficult filling in at the last minute but, Marc did very well playing bass for our nation until midnight instead of the usual mid afternoon thunderstorm."

Charles Ward stated, "we enjoyed 'Sun Country' so much that we would add it to the Chamber of Commerce's Bar-B-Que so we talked them into performing for the Memorial Day function."

With a pre-registration of 12,485 the 1976 International Country music Fan Fair reaches a new peak June 7-13 with a record amount of well paying and more music than ever before.

Sponsored by the "Grand Ole Opry" and the CMA, Fan Fair for a Fee of $25, offers 25 hours of live entertainment by leading country artists, the Bluegrass fiddling contest, song writers show, photo-autograph session and admission to the auditorium exhibition booths promoting labels, stars and other country music themes.

Social Chatter

By Maude Vereen

On Thursday night, June 3, the Glades Central Band and Choir held their annual award night. This year was in the form of a banquet. The band usually would have a picnic where most of the members would remain home but not so this time. The parents are to be commended for responding in a group number.

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Locke, sang beautifully. We were entertained also by the Stage Band. Rev. Wilbur Harrison, a former band student, gave the invocation and afterward blessed the food.

Before introducing the speaker, Mr. Willie Pym, the band director, stated he looked everywhere 1976 to get someone to speak. He called Julius Bond of Atlanta, Ga. but he was committed. He contacted Rev. Jesse Jackson, who was busy, and he tried to reach Dick Gregory but he was running too fast to help the poor.

Then he decided, "I'll see what I can make out with here at home." He looked around the school and saw a young man and said to himself, "I'll try him."

Smile. Mr. Pym had introduced this same man at the Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church on Youth Day and realized that no one could reach or touch these children and parents as Rev. Mr. James Allen, a member of Glades Central's faculty could.

Martin Luther King Jr. said, "I been to the mountain top." Mr. Allen took us upon the mountain top. The reason I know is because days later, I heard expressions from parents and students about the message.

If only they continue to remember what he said. He told the students that if a teacher allowed them to come to class without material to work with, then that teacher is helping them to become nothing. If a teacher allows them to sit in class and do nothing, then he is helping them to become nothing.

He challenged the parents to look for grades at the end of each day and week and not just every six weeks; to visit the school and classrooms before trouble. From the beginning to the end, Mr. Allen had each person hanging onto his every word as if one was spellbound.

The awards and trophies were given to students and parents. These persons were also given plaques for service rendered to the band, Freddie Bass, Mrs. Maude Vereen, Mrs. Brenda Upham and Mr. and Mrs. William Mole.

Mrs. Beverly (Davis) Day and daughter of South Carolina are visiting here with relatives and friends and also to attend her sister's graduation.

The West Miami District of South Florida conference of A.M.E. Church will hold its Sunday School Convention June 8-11 at Opa Locka.

The African Methodist

Episcopal Churches will hold their general conference June 16-27 in Atlanta, Ga. This conference is held every four years. This year, bishops will be elected, laws will be made and adopted to govern the churches and after the bishops are elected, they will be assigned to their conference. Many pastors and laymen will attend this great conference where history will also be made. Mrs. Harvey Poole will be going as one of the delegates from the South Florida Conference.

Miss Acree, Mr. Throop wed

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray Throop

Final wedding plans announced

Miss Ruth Ann Thompson of Boynton Beach, daughter of Douglas H. Thompson and the late Ruth B. Thompson, of Belle Glade, announced final plans for her wedding to Eugene Emilio Gattuso at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

The groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gattuso of Boynton Beach. The wedding will take place in the Community United Methodist Church in Belle Glade with the Rev. Blair officiating over the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Thompson is a 1969 graduate of Belle Glade High School and attended Young Harris Junior College and the University of Georgia. She is now employed at Pam Can Am Floral Associates in Delray Beach.

Gattuso attended Armstrong College in Savannah, Ga. and graduated from BCD Tech in Charleston, S.C. He is now self-employed in the construction field.

All friends of the couple and families are invited to attend the wedding.

The Herald would be happy to print your social news

Miss Donna Florence Acree and Kenneth Ray Throop were united in marriage April 10 at the First Baptist Church in Belle Glade by the Rev. Robert Atkins.

Miss Acree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Acree Jr. and the groom is the son of Mrs. W. W. Abel and the late Clarence (Buster) Throop, all of Belle Glade.

The vows were spoken in a twilight ceremony. The choir loft held a branch candelabrum in the background with a large basket of spring flowers in the center, flanked by spiral candelabra and palms.

A musical program was presented by Steve Huggins, who sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" and Mrs. Pat Stedham, who sang "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest". They were accompanied by Mrs. Helen Youngblood as organist.

Clarence Throop served his brother as best man and Mrs. David Rimes was her sister's matron of honor.

Mrs. Dalton Davis and the bride's sister Doris Acree, were bridesmaids. Miss Lisa Acree also served her sister as junior bridesmaid. Miss Barbara Dean was flower girl and Mickey Acree Jr., cousin of the bride from Moore Haven was the ring bearer.

David Pelham, the groom's nephew, Hugh Acree, the bride's bother, and Robert Ellis were the groomsmen.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore her mother's wedding gown, as did her sister, Laura in her wedding. The gown was of re-embroidered Alencon lace over nylon tulle. The yoke was appliqued with lace and pearls around the neck and attached to a tight fitting bodice, with lace forming long points from the waist over the skirt that formed a full chapel train. The sleeves extended to lily points on her hands. Her kissing veil and train trimmed with Alencon lace were held by a Juliet cap adorned with pearls and lace. She carried her mother's prayer book topped with a cascade of valley lilies, white orchids and ivy. She wore her paternal grandmother's choker studded with crystals and pearls worn in her wedding 46 years ago. Her other jewelry was a diamond ring, a gift of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Laura Boree.

The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore floor length gowns of blue, yellow, tangerine and green, respectively, in solid color crepe with flowered crystalline sleeves and inset, with matching headpieces with short veils. The dresses and headpieces were made by the bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Acree Sr. They carried baskets of spring flowers.

The flower girl wore a pink floor length gown similar to the other attendants. She also carried a spring basket.

Mrs. Myrtle Cook of Lakeland, a paternal great aunt, directed the wedding, as she did the bride's parents' wedding.

The bride's mother wore a green floor length coat-dress and the groom's mother wore a coral floor length two piece gown. Both wore white cymbidium orchid corsages.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on the outdoor patio. With Mrs. Floyd Royall, Mrs. Mickey Acree, Mrs. Jack Rashley, Mrs. Johnny Prevatt and Mrs. Tom Swager acting as assistants. Mrs. Eugene Stokes of South Bay kept the bride's book.

The three-tiered wedding cake with four individual bride cakes extended outward on pedestals and were topped with a blown glass ornament with wedding bells.

The couple left for a honeymoon in Naples, with the bride choosing a white jacket dress with green striped bodice with green accessories as her going-away outfit with the corsage from her bridal bouquet of white orchids.

They are making their home at 1532 N.W. Ave. B in Belle Glade.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Lonnie Brooker of Green Cove Springs, Mrs. Dora Smith of Polk City, Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Bryson, all of Apopka, Mrs. Judy Arthur of Naples, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Royal, Barbara Royal, Raymond Huebner and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stacy, all of Clewiston, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boree and family, Mrs. Norma Jean Prevatt and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Pearce, all of Okkeehobee and Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Acree and family of Moore Haven.

TALES
Q. I know we need the oil, but has any oil company figured out a way to find it more easily?

A. Yes. Several oil companies have developed seismic technology to detect underground deposits of oil and gas. This has enabled Gulf Oil Corporation, for example, to achieve a ratio of one successful exploratory well for every two drilled offshore Louisiana, a rate considerably above the industry average.

Residents meet to further charitable work of Mrs. Price

Fifteen local residents met, for an hour Monday night June 7th, at the Belle Glade Public Library to organize the continuation of Mrs. Katherine Price's work of distributing clothing, food and household needs to the people of the Glades. William Gravelly moved to organize, seconded by Mrs. Jean Cross. All in attendance comprise the Organizing Committee, which will meet again Thursday, June 17th, at the Belle Glade

Public Library at 7:30 p.m. This meeting is open to all concerned residents of the Glades. Mrs. Price addressed the group about the different kinds of help which have been provided. She stressed that people in all kinds of areas of the Glades have been aided, and that items have even been delivered to homes around the area when necessary.

Mrs. Price called on many who have helped her to tell of the need for the continuation of this work: Mrs. Mattie Lealand, who has worked with Mrs. Price for 15 years; Mrs. Jean Cross of the Palm Beach County Social Services; Sister Veronica Marie of St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church; Mrs. J. B. Simmons of Everglades Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Price's neighbor of 11 years—Mrs. MacMillan; Mrs. Evelyn Sheahan of St. John's Episcopal Church; and Miss Deloris Johnson of Community Action Migrant Program.

The needs for a Glades agency to provide emergency housing, recuperation care for those discharged from hospitals but unable to live alone, and care for those stressed. It was agreed that there is no other agency in the Glades to provide clothing, food and household needs. Several persons stated that this work needs to be continued and the conviction that Glades residents will support it with their work and donations.

Mrs. Price insisted that she did not want the organization to be named for her. But she is very hopeful that the new organization will continue her work and address other community needs also. The Organizing Committee will choose a name for the new private, non-profit agency.

Sugar producers had record year in 75-76

Florida's sugar industry achieved record production over the 1975-76 seasons, grinding 10,807,496 tons of sugarcane, according to Don Walsh of the Florida Sugar Cane League.

From this, 1,060,911 tons of raw sugar were produced, for an approximate value (based on current prices) of $200,000,000. In addition, 75,943,830 gallons of blackstrap molasses contributed another $21,000,000.

Another important by-product of the sugarcane plant is bagasse the fibrous portion of the plant. Bagasse not only provides energy to power the boilers at the sugar mills, but also is used in the making of cattle feed and fuel.

which plastics and resins are produced. It provided 1,204,424 tons of dry fibre. Florida's sugar production this year nearly equaled that of the State of Hawaii (1,107,197 tons), which has historically been the largest domestic producer of raw sugar from sugarcane.

The grinding season just passed averaged 151 days, with the first mill starting on Oct. 14, 1975, and the last mill completing on May 1, 1976. Labor problems interrupted grinding operations at one mill, causing a protracted season.

Last year, the Florida sugar industry produced 783,340 tons of raw sugar. The 1972-73 season, a bumper crop of 960,562 tons of raw sugar had been the record high.

Sugarcane is grown in four counties Palm Beach, Hendry, Martin and Glades, and is processed in three counties Palm Beach, Hendry and Glades at eight sugar mills. Acreage harvested this season totaled 297,000.

Sugar

Brazil's 1976-77 sugar crop, which should begin to be harvested June 1, is expected to be more than a million tons larger than last season's, with trade estimates ranging from 7.1 to 7.8 million tons. Brazil is expected to begin selling from the new crop earlier than the normal June/early July start of date. Brazil may be considering the possibility of negotiating long-term sales with refiners, following the footsteps of the Philippines, Panama and the Dominican Republic. The market tends to bounce from recent lows whether they can be chart support points or just good prices. In any case, we adhere to our recommendation of long September sugar bought at the 14.50-14.60 level with stop protection below 13.82.

Orange Juice

The May 1976 citrus futures contract ended its trading this week on a relatively strong note. For the first time since November 1973 a nearby contract has gone off the board at substantially less than carrying charges—May traded at 60 points under July in its final movements. The May was bought for delivery on a price basis ($8.59 cents, roughly par to current delivered-in fruit prices), while the more distant contracts moved lower on new speculative selling. The recent configuration of open market positions mirror the above situation. In the past four weeks the speculative short position has gone up on a price basis ($8.59 cents, 1.489 lots) while the hedge long position has advanced some 200 contracts (1,292 to 1,496). Thru the 23rd week of this season, the industry is carrying on hand (inventory) 8.6 million more gallons than it was a year ago. Basis the May 10th USDA crop estimate it appears that the industry will pack some five million gallons less out of the remaining Valencia fruit than it did a year ago. Thus, the projection is for an inventory of 3.6 million gallons ahead of last year at the end of the production season. Last year movement for the remaining 29 weeks averaged 3.5 million per week so that an average weekly movement of 3.6 million gallons this year would result in a season end inventory equal to last year's 46.5 million.

Soybean Complex

The soybean meal market continues to supply the background for the bull market in soybeans. July has now advanced more than .75 from the April reaction low while November again set new contract highs this past week, .70 above its April low. Traders are again looking for a $200 objective for meal and when one looks at the huge, six months base from which the bull move emerged, that $200 objective does not look at all unreasonable from a technical point of view. Excellent domestic meal demand is being supported by a large export outflow. Consumers were apparently lulled into a false sense of complacency during the bearish trend of last fall and the dull, sideways trend which lasted throughout the winter and early spring. Stocks were allowed to run down to uncomfortably low levels and the need for replenishment of meal inventory and the desire to obtain forward coverage now finds consumers scrambling for supplies. For some time an oppressively bearish picture of the soybean and product outlook was painted as traders focused on large carryover prospects of soybeans, perhaps in the 240/300 million bushel range, a worldwide glut of vegetable oils, and an outlook for a modest build up in meal stocks during the 1975-76 season resulting from an expanded crush. The publicity attending the Brazilian soybean surplus with strong export competition adding further pressure rounded out a generally pessimistic attitude on the part of speculative and trade interests. All of that has changed. Should the present strong demand for meal continue, the soybean disappearance figures may exceed expectations, with both crush and exports running beyond the recent projections. Thus, a carryover closer to 220 million bushels may be seen. This, in itself, might not be sufficient to fuel a bull market, but in the face of the 9.6% acreage reduction for the new crop the relatively large carryover is no guarantee of surplus in the 1976-77 season, at least not until the crop is in and average to above average yields are assured. We think that soybeans can make $6-on this move, although a reactionary phase for a week or two cannot be ruled out. Those traders long November in the 4.90 to 4.95 range as a problem that should be corrected and not allowed to go uncorrected. The most common problem right now is a foliage disease of grass called gray leaf spot. This appears as small brown flecks or spots on the green blade of grass and these spots gradually enlarge and kill much of the grass blade. This commonly occurs during periods of warm, humid weather such as what we are experiencing right now. Another more serious fungus disease which is developing is brown patch and this not only attacks the foliage but also kills grass stems and roots. This disease is characterized by a circular area in distinct patches and gradually enlarges. Patches that are close together may come together and form larger patches. These two fungus diseases are the most common ones to be alert to, but occasionally rust diseases or blights also may occur. We are fortunate that on most lawn diseases it is not necessary to have a different chemical for each type of disease and most of the time the chemicals used are what we call broad spectrum types. Area garden stores carry a wide range of products that are very effective for controlling lawn diseases IF USED PROPERLY.

Corn

New crop plantings have gotten off to an almost ideal start. The formula for record yields in corn calls for an early planting season and a favorable spring, and these are the ingredients we have with the exception of scattered areas of dryness in parts of Illinois and Iowa and some major concern in Minnesota. However, at this time great optimism exists and traders are talking in terms of a huge production in excess of 6.7 billion bushels despite the USDA's more conservative preliminary guess around 6.3 billion bushels. We have, therefore, a statistically bearish new crop picture. Opposed to this is the ever-tightening old crop supply situation and a series of bullish developments such as a sharply lower stocks in all positions report, the USDA's more conservative preliminary guess, USSR, active commercial demand for old crop futures, and expectations for increased shipments out of Chicago warehouses over the course of the next couple of months which may tighten up the deliverable supply situation. At week's end the market heard rumors of some large corn sales to Poland and in the present setting rumors become more and more believable. Three weeks ago we had suggested that long positions in December corn be transferred to July, in view of the change in the fundamentals, and this could have been done in the 2.74-2.75 range. We would maintain such positions with stops below 2.80. The July/December corn spread continues to widen and we expect that trend to continue. Those not in the spread might look upon any 5 to 7 cents narrowing in differences from any high as a place to enter the spread.

Meat Markets

Larger than expected total meat production, 9% above a year ago for week ended 5/22, and a bearishly constructed cattle on feed report combined to break live cattle and hogs futures to record lows until a bellies cold storage report appeared to turn the markets up once again. On April 30, warehouse stocks of pork bellies totaled 60,127,000 pounds, up about 9 million from the month before.

With our recent heavy rains we have had a rapid increase in the amount of fungus diseases in area lawns. This certainly is a problem that should be corrected and not allowed to go uncorrected.

The most common problem right now is a foliage disease of grass called gray leaf spot. This appears as small brown flecks or spots on the green blade of grass and these spots gradually enlarge and kill much of the grass blade. This commonly occurs during periods of warm, humid weather such as what we are experiencing right now. Another more serious fungus disease which is developing is brown patch and this not only attacks the foliage but also kills grass stems and roots. This disease is characterized by a circular area in distinct patches and gradually enlarges. Patches that are close together may come together and form larger patches. These two fungus diseases are the most common ones to be alert to, but occasionally rust diseases or blights also may occur.

We are fortunate that on most lawn diseases it is not necessary to have a different chemical for each type of disease and most of the time the chemicals used are what we call broad spectrum types. Area garden stores carry a wide range of products that are very effective for controlling lawn diseases IF USED PROPERLY.

It is important that control measures be started as soon as the damage is first, apparently since most diseases spread very rapidly by means of spores. Rainy weather will also tend to spread the disease by splashing rain drops containing disease spores on to new areas.

There are a number of steps to take to insure that diseases are less likely to cause extensive damage.

(1) Diseases are less likely to attack grass that has been properly maintained according to recommended cultural practices.

(2) Diseases are more prevalent during periods of warm weather and abundant moisture so these are the times you should be more alert for these problems.

(3) Many types of injury such as that caused by nematodes, insects, excessive spilling of chemicals such as fertilizer or improper mowing can many times be confused with disease damage. It is a good idea to eliminate these possibilities before beginning control measures. An easy way to determine whether or not the problem is a disease is when the grass continues to die or the infection spreads to new areas.

(4) When applying fungicides it is important that they be applied properly so that maximum benefits can be obtained. In most cases the entire area should be treated and not just the affected spot.

(5) All chemicals should be put out at the proper rate and in the proper manner in accordance with the manufacturer's directions.

(6) Make sure that the treated area is not mowed or sprinkled for at least 24 hours. If rainfall occurs very quickly after applying the fungicide it will probably be necessary to re-apply it.

(7) In most instances more than one application will be needed to achieve complete control and fungicides may be applied every 10 to 14 days if necessary.

An extension circular on turfgrass diseases and their control which contains descriptions of the various turf diseases and recommended fungicides is available from your local Extension office.

As we approach our summer, down in Brazil the weather is getting colder, and that bodes ill for coffee lovers. Prices of coffee already have soared, as anyone who buys the groceries knows, but further damaging cold weather in Brazil and troubles in other coffee-producing countries could make things worse.

Cold weather reports from Brazil have become more frequent in recent days. In August of last year, there was a killer frost that almost destroyed the coffee crop in Parana state that was to be harvested this year.

Brazil had been expected to produce 2.9 billion pounds; instead, it will have about 1.19 billion pounds for 1976-77. Because of a tightness in world-wide green coffee supplies caused by the frost and damaging rains in Colombia and Brazil, coffee beans have been offered for as much as $1.72 per pound, compared with 71 cents last July before the Brazilian frost.

Shipments of coffee from Angola, in Africa, have been disrupted by the recent war and the price has more than doubled. There have been few coffee beans available from any other source.

Brazilian coffee production is not expected to return to normal until 1979 at the earliest, and some of the reserve supplies that the producers are trying to stretch over the next two years. A frost this year or next could cripple—the Brazilian coffee industry and deprive consumers of their favorite brew or send the price sky-high.

Most roasters and dealers are trying to buy available coffee cautiously, fearing getting caught with large supplies of expensive beans if the price drops. They just want enough to meet immediate needs.

Concern in the roasting and dealing industry will continue through August, when the danger of a frost in Brazil will begin to wane. Until then, prices are likely to fluctuate with the weather news but are expected to remain high.

Rediscover America

Nearly 500 years ago Christopher Columbus discovered America. He and his crew suffered through all kinds of hardships, battles, and doubts while crossing the uncharted ocean. They proved to us a heading on this great continent.

Thus, this land was of little value in anyone. Over the centuries, however, this continent and especially our nation has become the richest and most powerful the world has ever known. Now, many of our people are experiencing fears and doubts about where we are as a people and what lies ahead for our nation.

Perhaps we should rediscover America. Since the land mass that Columbus discovered is firmly underfoot, should we not turn our attention to rediscovering the principles, ideals and purposes that have brought us to this present? Perhaps in reviewing the kind of men and women we can regain the faith of our fathers and be better equipped to approach the unknown future.

"More Christianity" needed, Christian Scientists are told

Christian Scientists from around the world were told this week that the only sufficient response to challenges confronting churches in general and their denomination in particular is "more Christianity."

"Not just the Christianity that acknowledges Jesus, as the Saviour," said Lenore D. Hanks, Chairman of The Christian Science Board of Directors, "or the Christianity that may be a sort of lip service. But, the Christianity that follows the Christ so closely it adds spiritual dimension to everything we do."

An estimated 10,000-12,000 members of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., were on hand to hear the keynote message. Many of the denomination's more than 3,000 branches in 57 countries were represented at the 81st Annual Meeting.

Accounts of healing solely through prayer were shared throughout the meeting. "In Christian Science, Christianity and healing are forever linked," Mrs. Hanks commented. "We can't really have one without the other."

In order to involve members more deeply in the meeting, they were invited six months ago to submit talks and questions. More than 250 talks were received and many played an important part in the three days of inspirational discussions and church reports.

Mrs. Hanks spoke frankly about a decrease in numbers of those in the healing ministry of Christian Science and of the need for strengthening branch church membership in many areas. Historian Robert Peel recalled to members that Mary Baker Eddy's first address in The Mother Church "didn't indulge in a paean of triumph. Instead she gave them the quiet reminder: 'Christianity is not superfluous. Its redemptive power is seen in sore trials, self-denial and crucifixions of the flesh. But these come to the rescue of mortals; to admonish them, and plant the feet steadfastly in Christ.'"

Members were asked to commit themselves to four objectives: more Christianity in their lives; better healing; a stronger appreciation of church; and greater alertness to the signs of the times. Marc Engeler, Treasurer of The Mother Church, denied recent rumors of financial crisis. "The Mother Church," he said, "has emerged from a worldwide recession in strong financial shape, with a sounder structure of income and wider base of support." He commented on reduced spending but emphasized the continuing need for strong, regular financial support for current operations.

The new President of The Mother Church is Naomi Price of London, England. Mrs. Price is an associate editor of the church's religious periodicals.

The new superhighway is a masterpiece of engineering skill, yet you still can't see around the curve in the distance. Whatever lies beyond the bend is as much a mystery as it was when this was a single-lane road.

Today we are living in the space age and are exposed to fresh miracles with almost every passing hour. But we still can't "see around the bend" of life. We are as human as we ever were and have no way of knowing what is coming next.

Since the beginning of time, man has lived with this mystery. What keeps him going? For many, it is the knowledge that the answer to our fate lies in far more capable hands than ours. This is God's universe, after all, His creation, and we are His creatures.

True, you can't see around the bend. But you can equip yourself for life's journey by taking a single, all-important step. This step is toward the church of your choice.
